Dear Mr. Head of Branch,

Cabot Norit Activated Carbon is committed to supporting and participating in UNEP's Global Mercury Partnership. Like UNEP, Cabot Corporation is deeply concerned with developing health hazards related to the consumption of mercury. It is our hope that our expertise in mercury removal will one day contribute to the elimination of anthropogenic mercury.

As the world's largest producer of activated carbon, we work very closely with utilities in the United States and Canada to help them remove mercury from their flue gas during the coal combustion process. We recognize that mercury emissions from coal fired utilities is a global problem and an issue that we would like to be more active in on an international scale. Moving forward, we would like to partner with UNEP by providing our state-of-the-art brominated carbons free of charge for mercury removal trials around the world. We would also like to support UNEP through free consultations with our technical organization, which has significant experience in removing mercury from the most challenging of environments.

We sincerely hope that UNEP will accept Cabot Norit Activated Carbon as a partner in the global fight to reduce and ultimately end mercury emissions.

Sincerely,

William Krents
