

Policies empowering women, indigenous people, family farmers and pastoralists can reduce environmental impact, increase agricultural productivity and contribute to reducing poverty and hunger

Reducing food losses and waste will have environmental, social and economic benefits

Sustainable land management is a major instrument for climate change mitigation because it improves carbon sequestration in the soil

By 2050, land degradation and climate change will have forced 500-700 million people to migrate

Food production uses 50% of habitable land

Approximately 33% of food produced globally for human consumption is lost or wasted

29% of global land is affected by land degradation, impacting the 3.2 billion people living there

By 2050, the world needs to produce 50% more food to feed the projected global population of 10 billion people

Livestock production uses 77% of agricultural land for feed production

Women represent 43% of those active in agriculture, yet they have rights over less than 20% of agricultural land