Travel Insurance

It is advised for all meeting participants to obtain travel insurance prior to arrival for travel cancellations and delays, medical emergencies, and lost luggage, etc. The variety of events may cause a financial loss will be his or her own responsibility before, during, and after travel for the meeting.

Currency

Beijing, the People’s Republic of China uses the currency Chinese Yuan (CNY, ¥).

Most mid and large-sized shops and restaurants accept credit cards and the most widely accepted credit cards are UnionPay, Visa, and MasterCard.

As mobile pay currently is the dominant payment method in the People’s Republic of China, some merchants may decline credit cards. Therefore, it is necessary for your convenience to take a reasonable amount of cash. The exchange rate is subject to market fluctuations (approximately 1 USD = 6.8~6.9 CNY). Please refer to https://www.xe.com/ for real time exchange rates. The following is sample of Chinese coins and banknotes:
100 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 14.5 USD
50 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 7.25 USD
20 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 3 USD
10 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 1.45 USD
5 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 0.73 USD
1 Yuan (CNY) ≈ 0.15 USD

Electricity and Voltage

China uses the electricity standard of 220V, 50 HZ. Please refer to the picture below.

Any other type of plugs should be attached to a universal travel electric adapter.

Warning! Some electronics and electric products may need a voltage converter (or voltage transformer).

Please read the label on your electronics carefully. A universal travel electric adaptor is not a voltage converter.

Medical Emergency

There are several hospitals and pharmacies near the hotel. Just in case, you need to see a doctor, please go to the Aviation General Hospital of China Medical University. Please refer to the map below. It takes approximately 6 minutes by taxi from the hotel.

Weather

February is one of the coldest months of Beijing. It is windy and dry and temperatures do not get much above freezing. The average low and high temperatures are -6 °C (22 °F) and 5 °C (41°F). During the meeting dates, it would be little chance of snow and rain, but it is still recommended to bring your winter jacket and consider the warmest options, hats, gloves, and earmuffs.

For more information, please check the weather before your departure.
