The Second COBSEA Marine Litter Workshop/Cleanup Campaign

The Second COBSEA Marine Litter Workshop and Cleanup Campaign will be organized in Pattaya, Thailand in close cooperation with the Ministry of Natural Resources and Environment of Thailand and the local government of Pattaya. During the workshop, the further implementation of the recently adopted COBSEA Regional Action Plan on Marine Litter (RAP-MALI) will be discussed.

In connection to the workshop, a media event will be organized in order to celebrate the outcomes of the Clean Up East Asian Seas Campaign 2008 and to launch the COBSEA RAP-MALI. The Clean Up East Asian Seas Campaign 2008 is promoting local cleanup activities among the COBSEA member countries. The campaign is organized by the COBSEA Secretariat in collaboration with Clean Up the World, Ocean Conservancy's ICC and Green Fins.

In addition, all workshop participants will participate in a beach cleanup campaign organized in collaboration with the local government of Pattaya.

📄 Scientists examine colossal squid

Scientists in New Zealand are examining a rare intact colossal squid specimen that will soon be dissected by knife. The 10-metre (34 feet) long, half-tonne carcass has been defrosting since Monday in Wellington, after the squid was trapped in a fishing net last year.

Scientists examine colossal squid

Scientists in New Zealand are examining a rare intact colossal squid specimen that will soon be dissected by knife.

The 10-metre (34 feet) long, half-tonne carcass has been defrosting since Monday in Wellington, after the squid was trapped in a fishing net last year.

The colossal squid grows heavier and probably longer than the giant squid

Very little is known about colossal squid; only about 10 specimens have ever been caught and brought to shore. Scientists hope the dissection will yield new information about where and how they live and breed.

The Museum of New Zealand Te Papa is showing the operation on a live webcast. One of the first tasks will be determining the creature's gender.

"If we get ourselves a male it will be the first reported (scientific) description of the male of the species," noted Steve O'Shea, a squid expert at Auckland's University of Technology, who is among the scientific team of 10.

Newsletters

The Newsletters Module will allow the Admin at RSP, or allowed persons to be able to send a newsletter in HTML format to the registered members or to other subscribed members as desired...

- Basic Settings: A section with a sub-header 'Basic Settings' and a description: 'In this section, you can set up required sender and recipients, as well as subject for your message.' It includes a 'User Role(s):' section with a 'Selected Role' column and checkboxes for 'Administrators', 'Registered Users', and 'Subscribers'. Below this is an 'Additional Emails:' field, a 'From:' field containing 'peter.manyara@unep.org', and empty 'Reply To:' and 'Subject:' fields.
- Message: A section with a sub-header 'Message' and a description: 'You can use the Editor below to write your message.' It features a radio button selection for 'Basic Text Box' and 'Rich Text Editor' (which is selected). Below the selection is a rich text editor toolbar with various icons for text formatting, alignment, and insertion. The editor area is currently blank and highlighted in blue.
- Advanced Settings: A section with a sub-header 'Advanced Settings' and two buttons: 'Send Email' and 'Preview Email'.

At the bottom of the page, there is a footer with the text: 'Copyright 2008, UNEP | Terms Of Use | Privacy Statement'.
