Agenda Item 2: Introduction to the work of the Bureau of UNEA

This note, entitled “Role and responsibilities of the President and the Bureau of the United Nations Environment Assembly”, serves as a background document for consideration under agenda item 2 - Introduction to the work of the Bureau of UNEA. It is based on the UNEA rules of procedure, on the final outcome of the Consensual Process for Review by the Committee of Permanent Representatives, and on established practices.

The Bureau members are invited to take note of the information provided and ask for any further clarifications, as needed, with a view to ensure broad understanding of the role and responsibilities of the Bureau of the United Nations Environment Assembly.
Role and responsibilities of the President and the Bureau of the United Nations Environment Assembly

1. Summary

The role of the President and the Bureau of the United Nations Environment Assembly is formally regulated under the UNEA rules of procedure (ROP). It is also guided by the final outcome of the Consensual Process for Review by the Committee of Permanent Representatives and by established practice. In summary, the roles and responsibilities of the UNEA President and the Bureau can be reflected as follows:

- The UNEA Bureau consists of a President, eight Vice-Presidents and one Rapporteur, elected during the final meeting of a regular session of UNEA. All Bureau Members are elected by name as a representative of his/her Government and hold office until their successors are elected, normally at the closure of the next regular session. The current composition of the UNEA Bureau is available here.
- During the intersessional period, if a Bureau member resigns or is unable to exercise her or his functions, the Member State or the regional group to which that member belongs shall nominate a replacement for the remainder of the term. In such a case, the nomination is then placed on a silence procedure for one month (rule 19).
- The UNEA President controls the proceedings and the maintenance of order at the Assembly meetings, directs discussions, ensures observance of the rules of procedure (including with regards to voting), accords the right to speak, announces decisions, and rules on points of order. The President can also represent the Assembly in intergovernmental meetings.
- The UNEA Bureau assists the President in the general conduct of business. If the President is no longer in a position to perform his/her functions, the Bureau will designate one of the Vice-Presidents as acting President.
- An overview of the governance structure of the United Nations Environment Programme, including the UNEA Bureau and other governing bodies, is available in Annex 1.

2. The role of the UNEA President

The primary source for the powers of the presidency can be found in the rules of procedure of the Environment Assembly (UNEP/EA.3/3), as follows (rules 32, 33, 34, 35):
- The President shall declare the opening and closing of each meeting of the Assembly, shall direct the discussion, ensure observance of these rules, accord the right to speak, put questions to the vote and announce decisions.
- The President shall rule on points of order and, subject to these rules, shall have control of the proceedings of the Assembly and over the maintenance of order at its meetings.
- The President may propose to the Assembly the limitation of time to be allowed to speakers, the limitation of the number of times each representative may speak on any question, the closure of the list of speakers or the closure of the debate.
- The President may also propose the suspension or the adjournment of the meeting or of the debate on the question under discussion.
- The President shall call upon speakers in the order in which they signify their desire to speak.
- The President may call a speaker to order if the remarks of the speaker are not relevant to the subject under discussion.
- When debate is limited and a speaker has spoken her or his allotted time, the President shall call the speaker to order without delay.
- During the course of a debate, the President may announce the list of speakers and, with the consent of the Assembly, declare the list closed.
- The President represents the Environment Assembly in relevant intergovernmental meetings, such as the High-level Political Forum on Sustainable Development (see UNEA resolution 3/3), in particular, to convey key outcomes of UNEA or to facilitate preparations for an upcoming UNEA session; the President may also designate another Bureau Member to perform such functions.
According to established practice, the President also prepares a draft UNEA ministerial declaration, with a focus on the theme of the upcoming session (see section 3). The preparatory process requires a broad consultative process to ensure the broadest possible ownership, where the Presidency holds the pen and issues several iterations based on comments and inputs shared by Member States in writing. The process involves regular communication with all Member States and stakeholders, inviting them to contribute to several iterations of a draft, which may include starting with key elements and followed by a “zero draft”, a first full draft, various revised drafts and a final draft. The process does not require a line-by-line negotiation. Informal consultations are usually held with the members of the CPR and the environmental focal points. Consultations may also involve other international meetings, such as MEA meetings, as well as informal bilateral meetings in conjunction with international meetings. The President may also wish to convene consultations during the Environmental Ministerial Fora, as needed. While the full ownership of the draft lies with the President, the Secretariat provides support throughout the process. A dedicated open web portal will be set up to reflect all drafts and written inputs (as an example, see https://www.unep.org/environmentassembly/unea6/inputs-ministerial-declaration-unea-6.)

3. The role of the UNEA Bureau

The Bureau shall assist the President in the general conduct of business of UNEA, in accordance with rules 17 and 18 of the rules of procedure. On this basis, the Bureau is expected to consult with members of their respective regional groups to:

- Carry out the tasks entrusted to it by the Environment Assembly and the President.
- Review meeting credentials.
- Prepare for upcoming UNEA session, including by
  - providing guidance on the identification of an overarching theme for the session (Note: UNEA-6 has requested the Bureau, in consultation with the CPR, to define a theme for UNEA-7 no later than 12 months in advance of the session, i.e. by December 2024);
  - advising and providing input on the preparation of the provisional agenda, draft programme of work of the session, and scheduling of items;
  - facilitating the negotiation of draft resolutions and decisions for consideration by UNEA, including through the selection of facilitators;
  - recommend the allocation of items to subsidiary bodies of the Environment Assembly;
  - provide guidance on the organization of relevant informal meetings related to UNEA.
- Coordinate with the Bureau and the Chair of the CPR to ensure that the work of the Committee is coherent, complementary and in support of the decision-making process of UNEA.
- The Rapporteur is mainly responsible for reviewing and clearing the report on the proceedings of the session of the Environment Assembly.

4. Bureau meetings

The UNEA Bureau meets, when necessary, as decided by the Bureau members. Meetings are presided over by the UNEA President and shall generally take place in Nairobi but may also meet at a location outside Nairobi, for example, hosted by the UNEA President. Regardless of the venue, all members, including the President, may attend the meetings fully online. In practice, Bureau meetings are predominantly held online, with some representatives who are based in Nairobi joining in person at the UN Environment Programme premises. The Bureau conducts its business in English.

Depending on the agenda, the President, after consultation with the other members of the Bureau, may invite observers from Member States or members of UN Specialized Agencies as well as from organizations.

Meeting invitations are sent at least 14 days in advance, and related documents are as a general rule made available online at least 10 days in advance.
In accordance with a decision taken at the second Joint Meeting of the Bureaux of UNEA and of the CPR on 22 May 2017, the Chair of the Committee of Permanent Representatives is invited to participate in an ex officio capacity in all UNEA Bureau meetings.

In line with rule 32 of the rules of procedure of the Assembly on quorum, the President may declare a meeting open when at least one-third of the Bureau members are present. For a decision to be taken, a majority of the members must attend. As per established practice and without prejudice to rule 49 of the rules of procedure, the Bureau takes its decisions by consensus.

A draft roadmap of meetings of the Bureau, including joint meetings, is prepared and regularly updated by the secretariat in consultation with the UNEA President and the CPR Chair, for information and consideration by the Bureau. All meetings, including Bureau meetings, have a dedicated open webpage, with agenda, background documents and a meeting summary. In addition, all meetings of UNEP’s governing bodies are listed in an online roadmap of meetings, available here: https://www.unep.org/resources/other-evaluation-reportsdocuments/roadmap-un-environment-programme-governing-bodies. Upcoming meetings are also listed here: https://www.unenvironment.org/cpr/meetings.

5. Joint Bureaux meetings

To facilitate consultations between the UNEA and CPR Bureaux, joint Bureaux meetings are regularly organized and co-chaired by the UNEA President and the Chair of the CPR. Meetings may take place in Nairobi or at a location outside Nairobi, for example, hosted by the UNEA President. Regardless of the venue, all members, including the President and the Chair, may attend the meetings fully online.

Some joint meetings take the form of a “retreat”, often with a specific topic to be discussed; these meetings are typically longer (1-2 days) and may be hosted by the President.

Relevant decisions are taken separately by each Bureau, in accordance with the mandates provided by UNEA and/or the CPR (e.g. regarding the selection of a theme) and established practice.
