

ROSEWOOD

Location:

Africa, Asia and Latin America

Critical to health of indigenous forests, our planet and people

Critical to survival of thousands of species that live in forests

The health of indigenous forests is critical to the survival of thousands of species that live in them and to the health of our planet and people

Rosewood accounts for 35% of the value of all seized wildlife products

